

A father of an infant son and five year old daughter. He is on flight 93 and the plane has been hijacked. The group has decided to take back the plane.	A 27 year old man in the control tower of LaGuardia Airport. This is his first day of work. He receives a call about a plane hijacking.
A 19 year old student at NYU. She grew up in the small town of Stanton, Michigan. She has never before lived in a big city. Suddenly, she sees smoke and people running.	A 33 year old pilot for American Airlines. This marks his 8th year as an airline pilot. He receives a message to immediately land his plane. He is close to Detroit Metro.
A teacher is in the middle of a lesson on commas when there is an announcement over the intercom. The teacher is aware of a crisis in national security.	A third grader is sitting in music class. The principal comes to the door to announce the current events in New York City.
A seventh grader is sitting in math class when an announcement is made over the intercom about the events in New York City.	A high school student receives an email about the events in New York City from his/her parent.

A firefighter arrives at Ladder Company 10 as the alarm is going off. He is told by his captain that this is serious. He only has a few seconds to make a call as the truck is loaded to go.	A wife gets out of the shower and sees a missed call. She plays the voicemail and hears her husband's "goodbye" from flight 93. She picks up the phone...
The White House has been called and must now reach President Bush. He is currently in Florida visiting an elementary school. The Aide dials the secret service in charge of the President.	A young advertising salesperson oversleeps and misses the train into the city. He is rushing to make the next train when he sees the news about a plane hitting the building in which he works. He picks up the phone and calls....
A couple from Japan have been vacationing in Orlando. They are currently at the airport waiting to board a flight home when an announcement is made that all planes have been grounded indefinitely.	A custodian is mopping a hallway at the Pentagon when a large explosion sends him to the floor. He is conscious but shaken. He grabs his phone and calls...
An amateur photographer is walking when he feels the ground shaking. He looks up and sees the horror of the first Twin Tower attack. He points his camera and captures a man falling from the sky. He flips his cell open and calls....	A hot dog vendor is walking into the Finance District to set up for lunch hour rush. He feels the ground rumbling and the loud gasps of people on the street as all eyes turn to the Twin Tower. He grabs his phone and dials...

An emergency room charge nurse is getting ready to go home after a twelve hour shift. A call comes in and she suddenly realizes she will not be able to leave for a long time. She calls...	A veteran from World War II hears over the radio that the Twin Towers have been attacked and a plane is heading toward the White House. He immediately has a flashback to Pearl Harbor. He calls....
Mayor Rudy Giuliani has just received word about the attack on his city. He knows decisive action must be taken. He calls...	Laura Bush is sitting next to her husband when he receives word about the attack. She quietly leaves the classroom to call....
An Arab American arrives at his job at a swanky hotel in Detroit. Televisions are all tuned to the unfolding events of September 11th.	An eighteen year old from Nebraska is packing for boot camp when he sees the news about the Pentagon. He has a sickening feeling in his stomach as he picks up his phone to call...
A young college grad arrives at her office on the top floor of the Twin Towers. She is busy responding to e-mail when the building shakes and the window behind her shatters.	A young mother of three has just sent her children to school and husband to work when she settles into a chair to catch up on The View. Instead, the news is detailing the sudden attack on the World Trade Center where her husband works.

An elderly woman who lives on the east side of New York City smells the smoke coming from the World Trade Center. Memories flood her mind.	A first responder is heading toward the Twin Tower after the first plane has crashed. She has a minute before arriving and calls...
A Police Officer walking his beat in Harlem hears over the radio about the attack. He immediately calls his captain and then calls...	A homeless person sees the destruction of the collapse of the first Twin Towers. The person is not sure if s/he will make it out of the city. S/he uses a nearby payphone with the last change in his/her pocket to call...
A taxi driver is racing to get out of the city as people covered in dust and debris try to get into his cab. He quickly dials...	A dog walker in Central Park sees a plane flying in way too low. Both the walker and the dog are transfixed by the airplane above them. The walker quickly dials...
A commuter on the Staten Island ferry sees smoke coming from the city. S/he pulls out a cell phone and calls...	A wilderness survival guide comes into civilization in early November 2001. In the local diner, he orders meatloaf and mashed potatoes and listens to the cook and staff discussing the events from September 11th. He doesn't believe them, and asks to use the phone to call...